DANIELSON

Mrs. Elizabeth O'Rourke Blanchard's head blown off by charge of shot from gun fired by Albert L. Owens—Latter and Woman's Husband Were Engaged in Drunken Quarrel—Owens, Claiming Accident, Bond Over—Taken to Cranston Jail.

From out of the back country just over the Rhode Island border, location of various horrible crimes, there came Saturday morning the story of the shooting of Mrs. Elizabeth Blanchard, wife of Frank Blanchard, Mrs. Blanchard had the top of her head blown off during Friday night by a charge from a shotgun in the hands of Albert "Lon" Owens. She was almost instantly killed.

Woman's Doughty Ties Story.—According to Mary L. O'Rourke, 22, daughter of the dead woman, the shooting followed a day of drinking and carousing on the part of Owens and Owens' wife. Owens admitted his responsibility for the shooting of Mrs. Blanchard, but told the officers who took him to the Rhode Island state prison at Cranston that he is to be held following a preliminary hearing that his shooting was accidentally discharged by reason of one of the triggers catching on a button of his coat as he crouched to avoid being shot by Blanchard, who was armed with a shot gun. Mrs. Blanchard had come to his shack and appealed to him, he claims, to protect her from her husband, who had been beating her and threatening to kill her, according to Owens' story.

Shack Near Foster Gold Mine.—A mile and a quarter back from the little frequented highway that runs southward just east of the line store, sets the weatherbeaten house that has been the home of the Blanchards. It may be reached over a rough cart-path that runs through wild and forbidding country. It is a few rods only from the shaft of the old Foster gold mine, where in what was the office of the gold mining company "Lon" Owens and his blind brother, Henry, lived a life of crime, their only neighbors being the Blanchards. Any of the barns in the neighborhood are palatial buildings in comparison to the homes of those that figured in the tragedy.

Returned With Liquor.—Leaving this back country section Friday afternoon about 3 o'clock, after a morning of more or less wrangling between themselves, the dead woman's daughter, Mrs. Blanchard, and Owens went to one of the road houses not distant from Hopkins Mills to buy liquor. When they returned, shortly after seven o'clock, they had been drinking and had with them, the girl says, a quart and a pint of whiskey and a pint of gin.

Beat Woman and Girl.—They stopped at the Blanchard home. The O'Rourke girl, when she and herself and the O'Rourke girl's little daughter, a child of four and a half years, before he had left the place to buy the liquor.

Men Quarreled.—It was not long after the return of the men, the young woman says, when Blanchard and Owens engaged in a struggle in the kitchen she charged, and knocked against the stove, finally swaying back and forth until they got into the party, when one of them dashed against the window, breaking it out. Threats passed between the men and Owens finally left the place, going to his shack.

Left To Summons Help.—Miss O'Rourke says that her step-father again began to quarrel and threaten just before 10 o'clock and she left the house with her little daughter, Alice May O'Rourke, when she and her father, Frank Blanchard, an elderly man who lives on a direct line through the woods, about a mile away. The shooting of Mrs. O'Rourke says, before she returned, though she heard the gun discharge when her mother was shot.

Mother's Body Near Well.—When she reached the house her mother's body lay out near the well, in a grassy path, leading to Owens' shack. Blanchard was there and Henry Owens, the blind man, but "Lon" was missing.

Constable Would Not Get Out of Bed.—Chief John Curtis of the Foster police, who was accompanied by Officer Silas L. Spink and Lester P. Simmons told Saturday of the hunt for Owens and other happenings of the night. After leaving the Blanchard place, Owens had gone to his shack and left his gun, immediately thereupon through the woods for the home of Constable Charles Stevenson to give himself up. Chief Curtis said Saturday that Stevenson declined to get out of bed to listen to Owens' story, so Owens went away and it was well along to morning before Curtis and his posse found Owens in a building in the town of Foster, the man offering not the slightest resistance to arrest.

Unaware Woman Was Dead.—Owens did not know that the Blanchard woman had been killed by the shot from his gun, his idea being that he had merely wounded her. To the officers he made the explanation, before he knew the woman was dead, that his gun had been accidentally discharged, as he crouched to prevent Blanchard shooting him, as he claimed. Blanchard had threatened Mrs. Blanchard was in range and was struck by the heavy charge of shot, which, examination by Dr. Harry W. Smith, North Attleboro, showed, had blown the top of her head off the back and right side. Owens offered as further evidence that the discharge

Many of those who get Saturday afternoon as a weekly half-holiday improved it at the week end, by going to Woodstock for the last day of the annual fair, by the Woodstock Agricultural society. Ruddy Cheeks—Sparkling Eyes—Most Women Can Have

Says Dr. Edwards, a Well-Known Ohio Physician

Dr. F. M. Edwards for 17 years treated scores of women for liver and bowel ailments. During these years he gave to his patients a prescription made of a few well-known vegetable ingredients mixed with olive oil, naming them Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets, you will know them by their olive color.

These tablets are wonder-workers on the liver and bowels, which cause a normal action, carrying off the waste and poisonous matter in one's system. If you have a pale face, yellow look, full eyes, pimples, coated tongue, headaches, a listless, no-good feeling, all out of sorts, inactive bowels, you take one of Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets nightly for a time and note the pleasing results. Thousands of women as well as men take Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets—the successful substitute for calomel—now then just to keep in the pink of condition. 10c and 25c per box. All druggists.
